How Your Local, Friendly Burglar Is Protected from You

Please don't argue with your neighborhood cop! He's got arguments all day long. And not many of them are with lawbreakers—they're with people who are supposed to protect the public from acts of criminality.

Recent interpretations of our laws make it next to impossible for cops to perform their normal duties of arresting those who steal from us. Roadblocks come from the new "criminal justice" theorists who are determined that justice means no penalty at all for criminals. So many bleeding hearts have gotten into the act that our system of justice is "fast becoming a farce manipulated by misguided idealists and outright idiots," says one observer.

Today's cop often spends more time arguing with authorities to remove obstructions by which he may bring a suspect to trial, than he does in locating the suspect.

Here's an example of what a cop goes through on a rather ordinary case.

The cop in this case is a sheriff's deputy. His name is Rickert. He has just received a report of a residential burglary in which a handgun was taken. The owner has the serial number of the gun. That makes identification easy.

Rickert also gets a report from a confidential source giving the name and address of the person who has the stolen gun.

Rickert checks the suspect's criminal record. It is extensive but he is not now on probation, thus precluding a 4th Amendment waiver. Such a waiver permits probation officers or cops to search him or his car for any reason whatsoever.

So Rickert considers obtaining a search warrant. But that would require him to reveal the name of his informant so as to assure the suspect's rights under the 6th Amendment. But the revelation would probably end the flow of information from his confidential source.

Rather than "burn" his informant, Rickert decides to go to the suspect's residence without a search warrant and there attempt to develop the case by questioning him and hopefully making an arrest on "probable cause."

But Rickert is informed that a recent case law in "People vs. Ramey" denies him the authority to arrest a suspect in a residence unless certain "exigent circumstances" exist or unless he has obtained a warrant of arrest.

So the cop goes to the District Attorney's office for a warrant and relates to him the facts of the case. The DA feels there are too many loose ends with no guarantee of conviction, so he declines to issue a warrant. Without a conviction guaranteed, the DA's conviction record would suffer. To a district attorney, his conviction record is like a baseball batting average. Gotta keep it high to stay in the game!

Thwarted at every turn, Rickert decides to talk to the suspect anyway. He is given another officer for cover. They knock on the suspect's door, identify themselves to a possibly armed suspect, and ask him if they may enter to question him about the burglary they are investigating and of which he is suspected. They must ask "May we come in?" If the suspect answers "no" the investigation must stop there.

The suspect, being one of the more considerate criminals, invites the officers in. So far, so good, think the cops. They haven't violated the suspect's rights yet. (Even the Supreme Court, in spite of its kooky decisions favoring criminals, would be pleased with them!)

Rickert dutifully recites to the suspect his rights as required by the Miranda Decision. The suspect says he understands his rights and is willing to talk to the two cops. The suspect, possibly being impressed by the courtesy and professionalism of the cops, or for something more reasonable, then admits that he did in fact commit the burglary.

But when the cops suggest a house search for the weapon, the suspect draws the line. No way! He apparently knows how the courts are interpreting the 4th Amendment and he possibly feels it has become his almost patriotic duty to protect these rights for the rest of the community. No search!

The cops confer momentarily but in light of the suspect's confession decide they have the right to arrest him under provisions of Penal Code 836.3 which gives authority to arrest on probable cause.

Staying within the framework of PC 833 they are permitted to "frisk" the suspect for offensive weapons. Their search, however, is limited by the Chimel Decision. That says they may only search in the immediate vicinity of the suspect. Since they are all in the living room, they cannot search the bedroom without his permission or a warrant.

Both cops believe the stolen weapon to be in the bedroom because of the suspect's furtive actions. So they dutifully call the DA for a "telephonic search warrant" and are informed that since the only evidence available linking the suspect to the crime is his uncorroborated confession, and since the gun was not located, that no search warrant could be issued. The officers attempt to convince they need the warrant to get the gun but are told that without corroboration the cops have no case. (The old chicken-or-the-egg syndrome)

The charges against the suspect are eventually dropped since there is no legal way to recover the stolen gun. Something called "prosecutorial discretion" is used by the DA's office when they feel there is not enough evidence to guarantee a conviction. (Got to remember the ol' batting average and, of course, the court calendar is crowded)

The suspect is now given an official document assuring him that under PC 849.01 he was merely "detained" and not really arrested.

The cops are spending a few concerned days over the possibility of wasting taxpayer's money for their time in court if the suspect files a false arrest suit. To make the whole case more ridiculous, even had the suspect been tried and convicted, it's a good bet that he would have been given probation.

The above material is complete and based on facts.

An element missing, you say? The victims of the crime? Shucks, everybody forgets about them. They're just incidental to the decisions, rulings, opinions and interpretations of the courts.

But if you've got to know, the victim is hassling with his homeowners' insurance firm trying to recover his loss. His wife is under the care of her doctor, dropping tranquilizers to relieve her anxiety caused by the unlawful invasion of her home.

The cops? They're checking the calendar for their earliest retirement date.

The suspect? He's healthy and doing well. Burglaries are still on the increase in the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area.

MISS LEMON GROVE — It was Judy Joanne Koenig who captured the fancy of judges Saturday at the Miss Lemon Grove pageant. Miss Koenig, who wants to be a model, raise chihuahuas and own a dark green (favorite color) Rolls Royce, was judged best of six candidates in the contest. She won second-runner-up in a Miss Santee pageant two years ago.

First runner-up was Mary Jo Byrne and Second Runner Up, Judy Walter.

Miss Koenig, who lives at 3057 Massachusetts ave., will represent Lemon Grove in the Fairest of the Fair pageant sponsored by the Southern California Exposition.

Good News, Bad News

Your Property is Worth More But Your Taxes Will Be Higher

Your property is worth a lot more than it was 10 years ago, but your property taxes are much higher, too.

Ask any homeowner. You might also want to ask E. C. Williams, the County Assessor.

This year the assessor mailed more than 220,000 increase notices to property owners in San Diego County advising them of new higher assessments.

Increases reflect the effects on value — inflation, high demand, and scarcity of homes in the San Diego area, Williams said.

"Our continuing studies of sales and other market value indicators tell us that buyers of San Diego properties have been willing to pay steadily increasing prices each year. This has been the trend since 1967 and is likely to remain with us for an indefinite future."

It is the responsibility of the Assessor to locate, identify, and determine the market value of over 500,000 individual properties each year. His procedures and methods are directed by the California Constitution and Revenue & Taxation Code.

The Assessor's valuations are forwarded to the Auditor on July 1 each year, and the Auditor, considering the budgets of the county, city, schools, and special districts applies dollar tax rates which result in dollar tax bills to property owners.

The Assessor is not a part of the budget, tax-dollar system of the taxing jurisdictions in the more than 2,200 tax rate areas in the county. "Unfortunately for us," Williams says, "the general public is under the impression that the Assessor causes their property taxes to increase. Actually, property taxes would remain the same, or go down, if tax rates were lowered as the value of properties increased. Tax rates are designed to cover budgets supported by tax dollars. The places to demand lower property tax bills are at the doorsteps of the city, county, school, and special district budget hearings.

Sups. Approve Change; VLM Within LG Bounds

The county board of supervisors put some steam back into the stalled movement to incorporate Lemon Grove last week as it voted 3 to 1 to recommend the proposed north boundary be extended to include all of the Vista La Mesa (VLM) area.

District 2 Supervisor Dick Brown joined pro-Lemon Grove citizens who argued that the Lemon Grove Fire Department was equipped to service most of the area north of 94.

Fire protection is of particular concern to VLM residents who will no longer be served by the California Division of Forestry after July 1.

The dissenting vote on the revision came from Supervisor Jack Walsh who maintained that the freeway was the most logical boundary between the two cities.

Cheaper Tax Rate

A county study shows that services to the City of Lemon Grove could be initiated at a tax rate of 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation, based on a boundary that includes the portion of VLM presently in the Lemon Grove Fire District. That rate is 9.2 cents cheaper than what Lemon Grove residents are levied for fire protection alone.

The LAFCO hearing is expected June 7, a day prior to the California Primary election.

Final cityhood election approval from supervisors is expected in July, and the issue will probably be placed on the November presidential election ballot.

12,360 Contributions Sought

Principal Pyle Hopes Pyramid Will Bring Mt. Miguel Aquatics

More than 100 representatives of Lemon Grove and Spring Valley met last week to help mobilize a major fund-raising effort for the Mt. Miguel High swimming pool fund.

The kick-off dinner, prepared and catered by Mt. Miguel students, was held April 20 in the school cafeteria.

Community members from various backgrounds were chosen for the kick-off dinner.

The new fund-raising drive, a brainchild of Mt. Miguel Principal Dr. Robert Pyle, is designed to raise the balance needed for the Miguel Community Aquatic Center (MCAC).

It involves ultimately a $10 contribution from 12,360 people to be solicited through a complex network of pyramid-ing contributors.

Pyle hoped to recruit a core of 60 volunteers from last week's gathering. The 60 would each be responsible for $10 contributions from 206 others.

The pyramid would progress as follows: Each of the 60 in the core group is asked to obtain commitments from five other people. Each of those five, on addition to donating $10, commit four more people. Each of those four is asked to donate and recruit another three donors, and the three would each be expected to obtain $10 contributions from two others.

If the pyramid chain is unbroken, and Pyle is optimistic about its chances of success, there will be 12,360 contributors of $10.

The strategy, labeled simply "The Pool Plan," is the first major fund raising attempt since the ill-fated "Grasp Nov. 1" dinner-dance-auction concept sank last year.

The Boosters have $19,000 in the bank for MCAC. Another $25,000 is promised from Grossmont Union High School District. They need $100,000 to start the project, $160,000 to complete it.

The District will maintain the pool once it is built.

In addition to use of the pool by high school students, the pool would be open to the community after school hours.

The pool would provide an estimated 84,600 people use hours annually, Pyle said.

OTD Profits Dwindle, Chamber Board Told

The profit picture for Old Time Days may not be as rose as was first reported, it was announced Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Chamber President Bob Guest reported that last minute bills exceeded estimates and that he would be satisfied if Old Time Days broke even.

Chamber office secretary Glenda Jackson reported this week that receipts in show a net loss of about $500 for the four OTD events — parade, horse show, square dance and carnival.

There are $200 in ribbons and trophies left over from the horse show which may be used at another horse show, she said. Also, $182 in unpaid horse show entry fees are due.

Entries were limited at the horse show, she said because there were similar events in Santee and Del Mar that weekend.

It was reported earlier that profits would approach $1,000.

Thanks

Votes of thanks abounded at the meeting. Receiving Chamber gratitude were:

- The Old Time Days Committee, chaired by Leonard Klein and Harry Hinton, for work on the Old Time Days.
- Chamber office secretary Glenda Jackson for extra hours

Inside Job

The San Altos Coin-Op laundry, at 1803 Massachusetts, Lemon Grove, suffered $250 when an 8x7 plate glass window was broken "apparently from the inside," sheriff's deputies reported.

The firm is open 24-hours a day and is owned by Wallace J. Morishige of San Diego.

Mt. Miguel Wins Orchestra Awards

The Mt. Miguel Orchestra took top place in the North-western Orchestra Festival held earlier this month at Mt. Hood Community College in Gresham, Oregon. The school's string orchestra placed third.

9 professional judges then unanimously acclaimed Mt. Miguel's orchestra "The Most Outstanding" of 56 in competition and awarded it a 4-foot perpetual trophy.

Dean Immel is the Instrumental Music Department Director.

S.V. Man Not Guilty Of Tv Cheating Charge

Charges were dropped this week on a Spring Valley man accused of modifying tv sets for $25 so that cable 100 could be received without paying the monthly subscription fee to watch first run movies.

V. M. Crepeau of 643 Maclay st., Spring Valley had been accused of offering the service from a booth at an El Cajon swap meet.

A municipal court judge dropped two of three charges and the S.D. City Attorney dropped the third.

One law, which Crepeau had been charged with breaking, had been enacted after a complaint had been filed on December 26.

Fair to Open June 22; Andy Russell to Star

A theme reflecting the U.S. Bicentennial motif in entertainment, decor, exhibits and Fourth of July observances, will greet visitors at the Southern California Exposition which opens a 14-day run June 22 on the 313-acre Del Mar Fairgrounds.

The 87th staging of what was formerly known as the San Diego County Fair completes a span of almost half the length of the nation's first 200 years: the fair dates back to 1880 in National City.

For the third successive year a turnout of some 600,000 visitors is expected to attend the Expo sponsored by the 22nd District Agricultural Assn.

Grandstand entertainment, free to fairgoers, begins with the Mexican-American sensation of Country Western Music, Freddy Fender, on the first three nights followed by Jose Feliciano, one of the world's greatest guitarists, on June 25-26 and Andy Russell, famed singing star, on June 27, Mexico Day.

Rodeo, Too
The first six afternoon

shows will feature the Lynn Rodeo.

For Senior Citizens Days, singer Helen O'Connell will perform on June 28 and comedian George Gobel on June 29. Both will appear in the afternoon as well as the night grandstage show.

Afternoon and evening grandstand shows during the rest of the fair will feature the Johnny Mann "Stand Up and Cheer" Singers June 30 through July 2; the Young Americans Bicentennial Show July 3 and 4; and singer-comedian-instrumentalist Glenn Ash with Country Western singer Molly Bee on July 5.

The world-famous Flower and Garden Show will be housed completely in one four-acre site rather than spreading out along the Avenue of Flags and will highlight a "live" volcano.

Opening two days before the rest of the Expo to accommodate some 2,300 horses and 8,500 entries, the world's largest performing horse show will be divided between junior classes June 20-25 and senior classes June 26 through July 5.

Miguel Church To Install New Visiting Pastor

The Rev. Rudolph Johnson is installed as visitation pastor at the Mt. Miguel Covenant Church at Sunday 10:30 a.m. service, the church announced.

Rev. and Mrs. Johnson have recently moved from Redwood City where they served in the Peninsula Covenant Church for the past seven years. Rev. Johnson has also had pastorates in Kingsburg, California; in Minneapolis, Minnesota; and Brantford, Kansas.

The Johnsons have established residence at the Mt. Miguel Covenant Retirement Village, 325 Kempton st., Spring Valley.

Part of the new visitation pastor's duties will be to visit church members unable to attend church services.

SV Student Featured in 'Tiny Alice'

Grossmont College's Drama Department presents one of Broadway's most talked-about successes when Edward Albee's intellectually challenging drama "Tiny Alice" opens at 8 p.m. tonight in the Statehouse Theatre.

Directed by Martin F. Gerish, "Tiny Alice" features John Castellanos of Spring Valley in the role of the Cardinal.

The play begins with a "venomous exchange" between the cardinal and a lawyer whose contempt for each other traces back to their school days. Eventually the lawyer offers the church through the cardinal, a gift of $100 million a year for 20 years from Miss Alice, the richest woman in the world.

"Tiny Alice" is also staged Friday and Saturday and May 6-8. Curtain time for all performances is 8 p.m. Admission is $2.75-cent discounts for students, children and Grossmont College Gold Card holders are available. Phone 465-1700 for drama tickets.

Film Program Introduces Spiritual East

The film "Sunseed," about the spiritual teachings and wisdom of the East, is screened today at 2 and 7 p.m. in the College Grove Shopping Center Community Hall.

The film introduces 11 spiritual teachers. A short film "Afghan Ways," accompanies "Sunseed."

Len Pellittiri, Grossmont College English instructor, will introduce the film and lead a discussion.

The program, part of the college's community education program, is repeated Friday at 8 p.m. in the Grossmont Student Center.

County Vets Open Door for 'Be Kind' Wk.

Local vets are inviting pet owners and animal lovers to kick off "Be Kind to Animals Week" Sunday with a visit to a local pet hospital or clinic.

The San Diego County Veterinary Medical Assn. and the Veterinary Clinics and Hospitals in San Diego County have planned an open house from 1 to 4 p.m., Sunday at several county locations.

Veterinary hospitals and clinics co-sponsoring the event will be open to give public tours of the facilities.

Participating in this area will be Rancho San Diego Animal Hospital, 10761 "A", Jamacha blvd., Spring Valley.

Garden Tour Planned

Flowering plants, bushes and trees will be offered to benefit the Botanic Gardens Sunday 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m. at the Ecker Family Building at 230 Quail Gardens dr., Encinitas.

A tour of the spectacular Quail Gardens is programmed. In addition to plants, hand-crafted items and refreshments will also be available.

Symphony's Bicentennial Salute

Composer's 'Thank You' Premieres Next Week

The San Diego Symphony's much-touted "America 1976," written by a French immigrant as a "thank you" to his adopted land, receives its world premiere Thursday, May 6 at 8 p.m. in San Diego's Civic Theatre. Peter Eros conducts the San Diego Symphony Orchestra, Symphonic Chorale and the San Diego State University Concert Choir, while internationally acclaimed bass-baritone George London narrates the work.

Additional performances have been scheduled for Friday, May 7 and Sunday, May 9. Tickets ($3.50 to $8) are available at the Civic Theatre Box Office and the usual ticket outlets.

Pre-Concert Interview

Composer Jacques Berliński will be interviewed at a special informal pre-concert discussion at the Civic Theatre at noon Wednesday. Backstage tours are available every ten minutes beginning at 11:30. Admission is $1.50 and tickets are available at the 3rd and C street stage door.

Berliński has composed three other symphonies, contatas and symphonic poems which have been performed in France, Belgium, South Africa, Australia and the United States. The Cleveland Orchestra under George Szell premiered his first symphony.

"America 1976" grew out of his desire to put something on paper as a legacy to his adopted land. It has been a "four-year labor of love," he said.

'Volunteer Week' Ceremonies Set For May 16 to 22

The Volunteer Bureau Division of United Way will join in the nationwide celebration of National Volunteer Week, May 16-22, according to Thelma Cuevas, chairman of S.D. County's Volunteer Week.

"Volunteer America," has been chosen for this year's salute to the more than 150,000 volunteer workers in S.D. County in recognition of their valuable contributions.

Miss Cuevas is a volunteer herself with 20 years with the local chapter of American National Red Cross, a United Way agency.

Throughout the week-long observance, proclaimed this year by President Ford, volunteers will be honored at teas, open houses, luncheons, and other awards ceremonies.

UW's Volunteer Bureau Division, which organizes and sponsors these observance programs, places more than 5,500 people annually in volunteer jobs within the county by serving as a central clearing-house to match up the interested persons and volunteer assignments of their choice and skill.

The Bureau's placement program provides volunteers for more than 300 non-profit organizations, including the 90 human care agencies of United Way, as well as the City and County of San Diego.

Antique Bottles in Show

The San Diego Antique Bottle Club will hold its 11th annual show and sale May 1-2, at the Scottish Rite Memorial Hall, Mission Valley. On Saturday, hours are 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Sunday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Admission is $1. Parking is free.

New SV Teen Center

Youth for Progress, Inc., a San Diego-based group, is opening a new teen center at 8708 Jamacha rd. in Spring Valley. The new center will provide counseling services, vocational services, tutoring and recreational activities, a spokesman said.

A grand opening was held last night.

Tests Now Can Detect A Problem Pregnancy

An estimated 1,000 expectant mothers in San Diego County have the medical category of "high risk pregnancy" in common. These women share a heightened chance of producing a child with chromosomal abnormalities, the most prevalent of which is Down's Syndrome, or mongolism.

The criteria for entering this high risk group are simple: a woman need only be pregnant, and over the age of 35.

O. W. Jones, M.D., head of the Division of Medical Genetics at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine, estimates that less than five per cent of these expectant mothers receive genetic counseling and fetal monitoring for chromosomal abnormalities.

"I would like to see that percentage increase," Jones said.

Others Susceptible

The concern extends beyond the group where maternal age is a factor to families who have experienced previous birth defects or grave and incurable genetic illness in newborns.

Until the advent of the prenatal test called amniocentesis, an educated guess was often the best reassurance physicians could provide for high risk parents. The amniocentesis procedure involves withdrawing a small sample of the fluid surrounding the fetus by passing a hollow needle through the mother's abdomen and into the womb. The fluid, which contained discarded fetal cells, is then analyzed for signs of certain disorders.

"Genetic monitoring through amniocentesis can help reassure these families," Jones said, "and help eliminate the anxiety these parents feel."

All chromosomal defects, such as Down's Syndrome, and some fifty metabolic disorders can be detected by the test.

Safety

The safety and accuracy of the test was affirmed this year with the results of a four-year study involving nine major medical institutions, including USC School of Medicine.

The study concludes that there were no statistically significant differences in rates of miscarriages, stillbirths, maternal complications, prematurity, or incidence of birth defects not diagnosed by amniocentesis. Children examined at one year of age showed no significant differences in growth or development.

The procedure is simple but it is not yet widely available, Jones said. Amniotic fluid diagnoses require highly sophisticated laboratory facilities and personnel. The UCSD School of Medicine is one of less than a hundred institutions with the capability in the United States and Canada.

Eat and Grow Younger

Long, Youthful Life Depends Upon Well-Planned, Wholesome Eating

By Lelord Kordel
Number Fourteen of a Series

Your great desire is to live a long, useful life, all the while looking and feeling far younger than your years. Certainly this is a goal worth aiming at. But are you prepared to abide by the Commandments? Because everything worth attaining has a price. And the price of a long, youthful life is planned diet.

At first, the careful and judicious selection of youth-protecting foods will be a novelty you'll enjoy. But after that may come the danger period when the novelty provided by a new regimen begins to wear off, and you are tempted to lapse into the "oh, it's too much trouble" kind of defeatist thinking.

Yet I promise you that once you have successfully weathered this period of temptation to return to the old haphazard way of eating, you'll subconsciously begin accepting, or rejecting, each food on the basis of its contribution to your youthfulness and long life, with the same skill as that exercised by a trained nutritionist. Instinctively, you will avoid the old "goody" meals with which you formerly insulted your body.

Food Commandments

The food commandments I shall lay down are those that will afford you taste pleasures and adventures in good eating the like of which you have seldom enjoyed before.

Let's take these six general rules — commandments I have called them — one by one, in detail, as they pertain to your goal of attaining a long, youthful, enjoyable life.

My first commandment is high-grade proteins in abundance.

The protein story has been developed rather fully for you in the preceding chapters, so there is no need to repeat at length the fact that protein is essential for feeding, repairing and rebuilding your muscles, nerves, tissues, glands and vital organs.

In case of illness or convalescence, protein is the rebuilding of your health.

Life insurance companies have an unsentimental, dollars-and-cents interest in keeping you well and alive for a long time. For that reason they issue series of pamphlets and booklets loaded with sane advice on how to avoid illness and early death. I quote from one of the pamphlets directed at the 40-and-over group:

"An ample, nutritious diet is as important to adults as to growing children. Learn to like and to choose foods that are good for you. Well-balanced meals of vegetables, meats and fresh fruits are health-building meals. The impression that people in the older ages should avoid eating meat is entirely erroneous. In fact, some diseases are due to lack of protein which is contained in such foods as meat, fish, poultry, eggs and cheese."

Let's see what nutritional science has been doing to fight these "disease enemies of your youth."

Blood Disorders

First, we'll take blood disorders. One of the most common of these in persons past 40 is anemia. The paleness which has come to be associated with growing older is often nothing except a visible symptom of nutritional anemia. There's no reason why a person shouldn't possess a healthy, glowing complexion in later years, provided his blood is rich with red coloring matter. But healthy blood cannot be formed without protein any more than it can be maintained without the minerals iron and copper. You can't build good red blood on tea and toast.

Anemia at any age cannot be shrugged off as "not serious." But in middle life anemia is an ailment that can shorten your years of useful, vigorous living.

If you suspect you may be anemic, go at once to your doctor or to a reliable laboratory and have a blood count taken.

If a blood count reveals too few red cells and a low percentage of hemoglobin (that is, it is not enough), then you should act at once to restore your blood to normal. How?

By immediately converting to high-protein meals (those containing lean meat, liver, kidney, heart, dark meat of poultry, eggs cheese and low-fat milk products. Eat generously of iron-rich apricots, molasses, prunes, raisins, whole grains, beets, parsley, radishes, citrus fruits and pineapple, but mention but a few foods highest in iron content.

Mineral Supplement

As a safety measure, your doctor will probably also prescribe a mineral supplement containing organic iron to rebuild your blood as quickly as possible.

As an added iron tonic which you can prepare for yourself at home, buy some unbleached apricots (usually found in health food stores). If apricots can't be had, the next best fruits are dried peaches or raisins.

Put a handful of the fruit in a glass, cover with lukewarm water, stir, and let stand overnight. Next morning stir the mixture again, drain off the water into another glass, adding to it one tablespoon of black molasses. Prepare and drink this iron tonic several times a week (the fruit should also be eaten).

Beefy Prizes For Winners Of Cook-Off

The San Diego County Cow-Belles are sponsoring a "Beef Cook-Off," May 13 at Valhalla High School Home Economics Department, 1725 Hillsdale rd., El Cajon. The contest is open to anyone living in San Diego or Imperial counties who is over 21 and has no professional status in the cooking field.

Entries must be submitted in duplicate, being specific, using no brand names, and must be prepared as designated. The cooking time allotted is 3½ hours. A description of how the recipe is served and the cost per serving is required. The recipe must use at least two but not more than five pounds of chuck, round, rump, or fresh brisket cuts of beef.

A panel of judges will screen the entries and notify the selected ten contestants. Dishes will be judged on appearance, taste and originality, and prizes will be awarded.

The county winner will be eligible for the State Cook-Off in June at Stockton. The state winner receives $1,000 and a trip to the National Cook-Off in Salt Lake City.

Deadline for entries is Thursday, May 6, and should be mailed to Mrs. Ernest Schaefer, Route 1, Box 21, Campo, California 92006.

Jamul Bazaar Is Fire House Fund Raiser

The Jamul and Deerhorn Valley Volunteer Fire Department are sponsoring a "Firehouse Sale" bazaar Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Jamul-Las Flores School on Lyons Valley rd. in Jamul.

The funds raised will help build a firehouse for the newly formed volunteer fire departments in the back-county Jamul and Deerhorn Valley areas.

There will be food, games and several items for sale including craft and homemade items, furniture, small appliances, tools and clothing.

The Singing Hills chapter of Sweet Adelines will entertain. A side of beef will be raffled off.

Kennel Club Hosts Pure Bred Dog Show

An all-breed, all age, pure bred dog match is held by the Silver Bay Kennel Club of San Diego on Sunday at Morley Field in Balboa Park.

115 breeds of pure bred dogs will be shown to the general public at no admission charge.

Entry fee for dog owners is $2.50. An entry form may be obtained by calling 443-1043. Entries are received until 11 a.m. Sunday.

Gem Show Slated

The Tourmaline Gem and Mineral Society will hold its 17th annual show Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2 at Helix High school.

Doors will open at noon. On Saturday the show closes at 10 p.m.; on Sunday at 6. Admission is free.

More than 50 cases of minerals and jewelry will be on display. A free rock will be given to all who attend.

SV Banquet, Open House

Extra-curricular activities in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District this week include an Open House and Art Show tonight at Kempton Elementary (7 to 9 p.m.) and a Mother/Daughter Banquet Friday (7 to 9 p.m.) in the auditorium at Spring Valley Jr. High.

boa Park from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A small village square in England will be the setting for the "Faire."

Acting classes will perform using skills learned during the school schemes. The Faire also provides technical theatre students an outlet to demonstrate accomplishments in costume and prop design and construction, stagecraft, and make-up.

The Renaissance Faire is comprised of Elizabethan Entertainment and period games. Booths feature authentic pastimes as tarot and palmistry readings, Punch and Judy puppetry and darts. Other entertainment includes mimes, juggling, madrigal singers, folk dancing and sonnet readings.

Scenes from Shakespearean plays will be performed at intervals throughout the day. Refreshments and dalliances will be for sale to cover the cost of production.

Visitors will be invited to play Elizabethan games including "Kiss the Wench," "Croquet" and Ring Toss."

LG Women to Tour Old Town San Diego

Mrs. Paul Hockenbury, chairman of the Garden Section of the Lemon Grove Woman's Club, is planning a luncheon and tour of Old Town Tuesday. Members will spend the day observing the historical sights and shops.

On Friday, May 7, the Junior Section of the club will entertain members with a Mother's Day Tea at the Main st. club house.

Polish Plan 3-Day Festival

Polish Americans in the San Diego area will mark their native country's Constitution Day and the Bicentennial with three days of activities. Included is a May Ball Saturday at the Sheraton Harbor Island Hotel.

The entertainment includes the coronation of the queen, Miss Carol Lipinski, and an exhibition of Polish dances. Polka music will be provided by The Villagers, from 7 p.m. Sunday festivities, beginning at 2:30 p.m., include a dramatic presentation and more dances at the House of Pacific Relations, Balboa Park. Polish-style refreshments will be served.

A flag-raising ceremony at the Community Concourse courtyard, 9 a.m., concludes the celebration.

Art Assn. Sponsors May Demo, Exhibit

Meals-on-Wheels Program to Aid Helpless, Seniors in L.G.-S.V.

A non-profit, privately financed Meals-on-Wheels Program, starting in Spring Valley, is scheduled to expand to Lemon Grove, according to Roy Williams, chairman of the program.

The program, now in operation in La Mesa and El Cajon, will supply two meals a day—a hot dinner and a cold supper—five days a week to those unable to cook or shop. People helpless because they are recovering from illness or surgery are eligible.

Williams, an administrator of the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District, said that the program is open to anyone regardless of age. The only qualifications, he said, are inability to shop or cook either temporarily or permanently. The program is being initiated in Spring Valley by the S.V. Kiwanis club of which Williams is a member.

Support will be sought in Lemon Grove among service clubs, church groups and individuals.

The county-wide program is represented here by William Wiener, administrative assistant of Senior Adult Services, El Cajon-La Mesa Division.

$3-a-Day
Wiener said that the Meals-on-Wheels service is not free. Recipients are charged a maximum of $3 a day. Arrangements can be made for those unable to meet the cost.

Senior Adult Services says each meal costs them $3.50. Contributions make up the difference.

Wiener said the organization is seeking commitments totaling $5,000 to make the program effective in Lemon Grove. In Spring Valley, he said, the Kiwanis club has set aside $500 to get the program rolling there.

Alex Struthers, executive of the Otay Water District in Spring Valley, is co-ordinating the development of the program.

Meals are prepared at local hospitals so that diet and nutritional considerations can be maintained. The Lemon Grove-Spring Valley project will probably use Grossmont Hospital.

A unique feature of the program is that meals are delivered by volunteer couples. These people use their own vehicles and furnish their own fuel. One person serves the meal; the other acts as a companion.

"Often, the only persons these clients see all week are Meals-on-Wheels couples," Wiener said. He also reported that "the average age of the client is 79 years" in spite of there being no age limits.

Some people are getting Meals-on-Wheels service in Spring Valley already and it is probably just a matter of days before service will be available in Lemon Grove, he said.

Those who are interested in volunteering either as transportation, companion or solicitation personnel, should call 462-9606.

It is the same number to call for Meals-on-Wheels service.

3 Here to Attend Boys' State Meet

Three area high school juniors have been selected to represent La Mesa Post 282 of the American Legion at the 39th annual session of Boys' State to be held in Sacramento June 19-26.

The three are: Randall Nunn, Monte Vista; Gregory M. Barcus, Mt. Miguel; and Michael S. Bloom, Helix.

The youngsters will be among 7 selected from the east county. They will attend the American Legion's "Laboratory of Political Science" at the Sacramento Junior State College where the boys from all over the state become political and develop their own party platform and decide their own issues. They organize county government, select states and elect officers up to and including Governor.

Two boys will be chosen to attend Boys' Nation in Washington later in the year.

Bollman $50 Fund-Raiser Draws More Than a Hundred

U. S. Congressman Clair W. Burgener and Chargers coach Tommy Prothro were among more than 100 supporters who attended Mike Bollman's $50 a person fund-raising dinner April 20 at Navajo Country Club's Culpepper Restaurant.

Bollman, Republican candidate for assembly in the 77th district, is seeking the post vacated by Assemblyman Bob Wilson, an attorney, who will attempt to wrest the 49th Senatorial District seat from veteran Jack Schrade. Wilson is a Democrat; Schrade, a Republican.

ERDA to Study Solar-Electric Power Plants

A plan for a $984,000 solar power study has been submitted to the U. S. Energy Research and Development Administration by the California Department of Water Resources.

The proposed project would study the feasibility of a multi-module solar-electric plant conceived by Berkeley Professor Otto J. M. Smith. If the concept is found feasible, a single mirror and a single solar receptor would be built and would be tested at ERDA's facility at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The full-scale power plant would consist of a field of modules, each containing a solar receptor atop a 115-foot tower and 312 computer-controlled movable mirrors reflecting solar energy onto the receptor. The heat would produce steam to run a turbine that would be connected to a generator to produce electric energy.

Advantages claimed for the Smith concept over other solar power plants include lower costs through use of conventional materials and design techniques, low towers for easier construction and maintenance and less visual impact, and some adaptability to varied terrain.

If the proposed study proves the Smith plant practical, DWR might seek to build such a solar power plant to help run the Albuquerque Project pumps.

Camperland Burglarized

A tape player and a cutting torch with tank are missing from Camperland, 6880 Federal Blvd., Lemon Grove, it was reported April 22.

The items, valued at $434, were taken while the firm was closed for the night.

Bollman told guests "We have too much government and too many bureaus. We have much more than we need or can afford."

"Uncontrolled government spending causes a lot of problems including inflation which hurts groups like senior citizens" and those on fixed incomes.

Government should be required to live within a budget just like we within our home," Bollman said.

Bollman also called for a return to the principles which he said made our country great: First, a belief that people can solve most of their own problems without government intervention; second, less governmental rules, regulations, and red tape; and, third, more reliance upon the free enterprise system.

Burgener told guests "Mike Bollman would make an extremely fine assemblyman and should be elected."

In addition to Prothro and Burgener other distinguished guests included Harry Holthusen, retired president of Imperial Savings; Marge O'Donnell, aide to Congressman Bob Wilson; Herb Stoeklein, former Balboa Hospital C.O.; Dr. Gordon Freeman, president of S.D. County Medical Society; Lee Knutson, La Mesa City Attorney and Dr. Donald Dose, president of Cal. Anesthesiologist Society.

Cyclist Burglarized

A motorcycle helmet and two leather jackets, all worth $130, were removed from a locked shed at the home of Robert Ohrazda who lives at 4050 Camino Paz, Spring Valley.

The theft occurred while he was away from home.

Secretary Butz Due

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz will be the speaker at the June 3 fund raising dinner of the Republican Central Committee, Chairman Robert W. Thornberg announced. The event will be at the Bahia Hotel.

"All of us who had the opportunity to hear Secretary Butz in Fresno recently were most impressed with the message he brought to that convention," Thornberg said.

"We returned home with the determination to bring him to San Diego, and I am delighted to report he has put us on his schedule." Reservations for the dinner may be made at the Central Committee office — 232-6701.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

It's been a long time in coming, but the boys of our summer entertainment have matured into full sized major league manpower. And not just one or two "names," but a full measure of the roster. Win, lose or come in fourth, the Padres can play even-up with anybody in the league.

It wasn't always like that. In fact, until this time out, it has never been like that.

Like all other expansion clubs, the Padres were little better than a triple-A team the first years of its existence. The free agent draft turned up a prospect here and there and little by little the Padres gained respectability. They didn't win, but they lost tougher.

Bobby Tolan came along in the spring of '74 to give the Mission Valley Sports Palace its first resident "star." He taught by example and positive thinking. He turned Derrell Thomas from a cocky kid into a polished, thinking, aggressive, nearly complete ball player.

And Tolan picked up the Padres and all but carried the entire team on his back until he ran out of leg room and went out for repairs with torn ligaments just short of the All-Star break. The Padres of '74 were fun to watch the first half of the campaign. Tolan had them out of the cellar and making noises like a team going somewhere.

His torn knee took him out of the line up and spirit out of the club and the second half of the season was long, lonely and sad. Randy Jones lost 22 games while giving up 217 ground balls leaked through an infield that played from the sieve formation.

After what appeared to be a respectable start, the Tolanless Padres finished the summer with 102 losses, and a full 42 games behind the Western Division winning Dodgers.

The promise of '74 became reality in the summer of '75 when defense, enriched by the development of Hector Torres and the addition of Tito Fuentes, captured most of the ground balls dribbled into the infield off of Randy Jones sinker, to give San Diego its first 20 game winner and its first finish out of the deep reaches of the basement.

Jones, who symbolized the dark days of the franchise with his arrival in the major leagues, became the star of brighter days with a 27-mile an hour fastball, a slider, a curve and a sinker.

It will be remembered that Randy came to the big club to fill the hole vacated when Fred Norman was sold to Cincinnati for enough cash to make the payroll and provide a bonus for those selected in the June, '73 free agent draft. Freddie's sale bought Dave Winfield, another strength of today.

But the fortunes were dark and down indeed when Randy came up to the Padres in Montreal three summers ago.

Ray Kroc stepped in and took care of the Padres' money problems and the Bayas's, father and son, took on baseball talent in trades, free agents and some pretty astute drafting. The proof of the pudding can be found on the field this afternoon (Thursday) when the Pad's host the Chicago Cubs in the season's first Business Man's Special at 1 P.M.

A pair of injuries have depleted Padre power of its one-two leadoff team. Johnny Grubb suffered torn ligaments in his right ankle chasing Reggie Smith's fly ball into the wall and Tito Fuentes pulled a thigh muscle running the bases last weekend.

No team, of course, can suffer such losses without losing equal portions of overall strength. As Sir Sidney Gillman, late of the San Diego Chargers et al, maintains the trip from the penthouse to the outhouse is two injuries. In the past, the Padres have made such a move with just one ouchy athlete.

But this time out, there is depth. Baseball is a 25 man sport and for the first time ever, Manager John McNamara has troops to call on that are equal to the opportunity.

"Ted Kubiak can play anywhere in the infield and he'll never embarrass you out there," says Mac. "And Jerry Turner can hit, run, throw..."

The Padres are hurtin' but this campaign, they have the bench strength to hurt without folding. It's been a long time in coming. We're really over due. But finally, they're for real. The San Diego Padres are a bonafide, full depth major league baseball team. And ain't that something to be braggin' about this bodacious Bicentennial summer.

Grossmont College to Salute 'Spirit of '76'

The Associated Students of Grossmont College, in a salute to the Spirit of '76, will sponsor a Spring Bicentennial Community Celebration on April 30, May 1 and 2, on the college campus.

Thirty booths will give local artists and artisans the opportunity to present their talents. Plants, sculptured candles, carved wood mirrors and planters, jewelry and wheelthrown stoneware pottery will be included among skilled artistry that will be displayed.

Continuous entertainment will offer something for everyone. Marie Hitchcock, "San Diego's Official Puppet Lady," will put on two shows during the fair.

Films scheduled for screening during the celebration include old-time movies, horror films, cartoons and a special viewing of "American Graffiti." An assortment of games, kiddie rides and sports demonstrations will be held at different locations on campus. Several car clubs such as "Brown Image" and "Southern California Ford Truck Pickup" will display classic and antique vehicles during the three-day celebration.

A fireworks display and dance will close each day's festivities.

Della Cole Sets High Jump Mark At Girls Meet

A Spring Valley girl became one of the county's best high jumpers Saturday.

Fifth grader Della Cole, who attends Bancroft Elementary School, jumped a record 4 feet, 3 inches in competition at the City/County Girls Track and Field meet Saturday at Balboa Stadium.

The jump qualified her for a trip to Azusa May 15 where she will represent the county at the Southern California Municipal Athletic Federation Girls Track and Field event.

Miss Cole is a student of Bancroft physical education instructor Mike Smith's after school athletics, an all-volunteer recreation-fitness program.

She became a track and field star at her school March 26 when she placed first in high jump at a meet at Mt. Miguel High. She placed third at a county qualifying meet held recently in El Cajon.

Della is the daughter of Veronica Cole of Spring Valley.

Charger Rookies To Be Starred at Indoor Picnic

It's tonight!
It's an indoor picnic — but a lots more fun because the Chargers 1976 rookies will be hosts. And all football fans are invited.

Top draft choice Joe Washington from Oklahoma and all of the team's 1976 drafted rookies will be at El Cortez Convention Center Century Room at 7 p.m. to greet fans, sign autographs and be interviewed by a sports personality.

All fans are invited to attend the festivities, which include free hot dogs, soft drinks and peanuts, showing of the new Charger film, "Accent on Youth," and a special film on the rookies. There is no admission charge. Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

On Friday the rookies report to San Diego Stadium for physicals at 8 a.m. and workouts at the practice field at approximately 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. There will be workouts on Saturday at approximately 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. and on Sunday at 9 a.m.

Joining the rookies in the workouts will be several free agent players and a few veterans.

Speedway Motorbike Races to Aid MD

Speedway motorcycle racing will be introduced to San Diego fans Saturday and Sunday, May 8 and 9, at the Muscular Dystrophy benefit practice program at South Bay Speedway.

The races, on a new, flat surface in front of the main grandstand, will be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m. both days.

Proceeds from the event will go to the Muscular Dystrophy. Disc jockeys from several radio stations and clowns will be on hand, too.

Steve Copp Wins $1,500 NCAA Award

Steve Copp, one of the best basketball players in S.D. State history has been awarded a $1,500 Post Graduate Scholarship by the NCAA.

Copp's award highlighted the fact that 76 Aztec athletes were honored by the NCAA as scholar athletes. Copp carried a 3.91 grade point average in Zoology (Pre-Med) through four years at San Diego State and was one of 15 basketball players from throughout the country honored by the NCAA.

Copp averaged 17.9 points and 8.5 rebounds last season for the Aztecs and was named the NCAA Co-Player of the Year.

He is also one of seven basketball players and 76 Aztecs honored by the NCAA for their scholastic as well as athletic ability. Basketball players with 3.0 grade point averages or better are Copp, Allen Bunting, Raul Contreras, Paul DeBott, Mark Delsman, Mike Dodd and Joel Kramer.

Hollypark Contest Has $10,000 Prize

Hollywood Park's annual Kentucky Derby Sweepstakes, the contest that presents racing fans with an opportunity to win $10,000, and the running of the $40,000 Coronado Handicap for Derby-aged performers, will highlight the action Saturday at America's number one thoroughbred racing emporium.

Sunday, $21,000 will be up for grabs in the popular Sunday Sweep Handicapping contest, while, on the track, the $50,000 Inglewood Handicap will showcase the top grass runners in the West.

First post time each racing day at the Inglewood track is 2 p.m.

Entry blanks for the Kentucky Derby Sweepstakes will be available all week at Hollywood Park, and at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, names will be drawn for each of the starters in the Louisville classic. In addition to the $10,000 that will go to the person who is selected for the Derby winner, an additional $5,000 will be distributed among patrons named for the other starters in the Run for the Roses.

La Costa Tennis Classic Adds Evonne Goolagong

Evonne Goolagong, the pretty panther of women's tennis and presently top-ranked in the world, has entered the $60,000 Mixed Doubles Classic at La Costa May 8-9.

Goolagong, who this month defeated Chris Evert in a championship match, joins Billie Jean King, Virginia Wade, Martina Navratilova, Rosie Casals and Betty Stove in the La Costa field.

The women are paired with eight all-time male professionals in the two-day mixed event that awards $20,000 to the winning team. King and Tony Trabert, former two-time U.S. champion, are defending champions.

The male field includes Frank Sedgeman, Roy Emerson, Lew Hoad, Vic Seixas, Pancho Segura, Torben Ulrich and Hugh Stewart.

The tournament is sponsored by Clairol and Vitalis. The four quarter-final matches and both of the semi-finals will be played Saturday, May 8 at La Costa's famed Racquet Club. Sunday's finals will be followed by the regularly scheduled World Team Tennis match between the San Diego Friars and the Indiana Pacer.

Rod Laver, the only two-time winner of tennis' Grand Slam, Ross Case, Cliff Drysdale and Terry Holladay will be in action for the Friars. The daily admission covers both events.

Ranked first with over $78,000 in winnings entering the finals of the 1976 Virginia Slims tournament, Goolagong established her supremacy by defeating Evert in a three-set thriller.

Opens Winner

Last year she won both the Australian and New Zealand Opens and lost in the finals of the U.S. Open (to Evert) as well as Wimbledon.

Ranked third in the world the last two years, Goolagong figures to improve that position during 1976.

She has had considerable experience in mixed doubles competition as a member of the WTT champion Pittsburgh Triangles. And she will be right at home at La Costa in the company of such Australian greats as Emerson, Hoad and Sedgeman.

These three during their careers accounted for five Wimbledon singles championships.

Tennis fans surely won't come up short for action during the event. For one admission on Saturday, they will be able to see the entire mixed doubles field in the four quarter final matches that begin at 10 a.m. and followed at around 2 p.m. by the semi-finals.

Then on Sunday, again for one admission, the mixed classic finals will be played beginning at 11 a.m. and that will be followed by the Friars vs. Indian World Team Tennis match.

Reserved seats are $6 and $9 with box seats priced at $15 for each day's program.

Mail orders will be filled promptly: Write La Costa Mixed Doubles, Costa Del Mar rd., Carlsbad 92008.

Chargers Open Season Against Chiefs at K.C.

St. Louis with Jim Hart and Terry Metcalf . . . Houston with Dan Pastorini and John Hadl . . . Baltimore with Bert Jones and Lydell Mitchell. Three of the National Football League's most exciting teams will visit San Diego Stadium to face the San Diego Chargers in 1976.

Add San Francisco with its new quarterback, Jim Plunkett, and AFC West traditional rivals Denver, Kansas City and Oakland, and it adds up to one of the most attractive home schedules for the Chargers. Three of the seven visiting teams are division winners.

San Diego opens the 1976 season against the Chiefs at Kansas City on Sunday, September 12, and continues on the road against coach John McKay and his new Tampa Bay Buccaneers on September 19.

Coach Don Coryell's Cardinals, champions of the NFL Central division, will be the opposition for the Chargers in their San Diego Stadium opener on Sunday, September 26. All 1976 Charger home games will be Sundays at 1 p.m.

After a trip to Denver on October 3, the Chargers return home against AFC West champion Oakland Raiders on October 10 and then face the Houston Oilers of coach Bum Phillips on October 17. San Diego travels to Cleveland on October 24 and to Pittsburgh to meet the Super Bowl champion Steelers on October 31.

The AFC East champion Baltimore Colts make their first San Diego appearance since 1970 on November 7. New Denver quarterback Craig Penrose will have a San Diego homecoming when the Broncos visit here on November 14. San Diego makes its first trip to Buffalo since 1968 on November 21.

The Kansas City Chiefs play at San Diego on November 28 and the San Francisco 49ers close out the Chargers' home season on December 5. San Diego's last game is at Oakland on December 12.

There are six pre-season games. Opponents, dates and sites are to be announced.

All regular season games are on Sunday. Home games are in capital letters. The schedule:

McIntyre Maintains Lead With Fourth Place Finish

Twice in last week's feature, talented Pat McIntyre encountered a "brush" with another but he settled back into a familiar pattern to place fourth.

It is with such driving ability that the Spring Valley building contractor has been able to win three superstock car championships.

Another driver might decide to take a few unnecessary chances to regain lost ground. The way McIntyre plays the game, there's always a few more laps.

This is why he still remains the man to beat Saturday night when the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. gang enters its fourth program. Time trials start at 6:30 for some 60 cars with a four-lap trophy dash for the four fastest set for 8 p.m.

The program will consist of four eight-lap inverted heats a 10-lap consolation and a 20-lap semi-main before the 40-lap feature.

Because of his tremendous climbs from way back in the pack, McIntyre has managed to maintain his championship points lead with 570 over Ron Overman, and Ron Esau, both of El Cajon, in second and third spots with 455 and 425. John Dineen of El Cajon is fourth with 335 and Lanny Pemberton of Lemon Grove fifth with 285.

Hang-10 Motocross Returns June 20

America's popular motocross race, The Hang Ten United States Motocross Grand Prix is slated for June 20, at its familiar Carlsbad Raceway. The race is the only American round of the World 500cc Motocross Championship and attracts some of the greatest names in International dirt racing.

To ensure a full foreign entry, Gavin Trippe of the Irvine based race promotions company, Trippe, Cox Productions, is currently in Europe contracting appearance by the Grand Prix stars.

Already contracted are four-time World Champion, Roger de Coster of Belgium and Dutchman Gerrit Wolsink, winner of the Hang Ten race for the past two years.

Prime favorite to snatch a bicentennial celebration win for America is 23 year old Brad Lackey, from Pinole in Northern California. He is so highly regarded by the Swedish Husqvarna factory that he is based in Europe for the whole season as the spearhead of their World Championship effort. The Hang Ten United States Grand Prix will be Lackey's only American appearance until the Championship season ends.

First Bullfight Set for May 2

The Tijuana bullfight season begins Sunday, May 2, at 4 p.m. with a top cartel for the downtown arena, El Toreo de Tijuana.

Ace matador Curro Rivera heads a bill that includes the Tijuana debuts of Manolo Arruza and Carlos Ortega, two of the fiesta brava's finest new stars. Bulls will be from the prestigious Mimihuaupam ranch.

As in past campaigns, the first half of the season will be staged in the 14,000-seat downtown plaza, the remainder in the bullring by the sea, 22,000-seat Plaza Monumental de Tijuana.

After the opening corrida, the next event will be May 30. June will be quiet on the Tijuana bullfight front.

Beginning July 4, a corrida will be held each Sunday at 4 p.m. through Sept. 19.

This will be the 39th season of formal bullfighting for Tijuana. Although corridas have been staged there since at least 1887, big-time bullfighting did not arrive until July 3, 1938, when the downtown arena was opened.

Pirates Here For 3 Games as Padres Homestand Nears End

The San Diego Padres will wind up their second homestand of the young season in the next few days and then head out for what will be their longest road swing of the entire campaign.

They take on the Chicago Cubs today at 1 p.m. in the finale of a four-game series with the Windy City outfit then get set to host the Eastern Division defending champion Pittsburgh Pirates for three straight games.

The Friday and Saturday games will get underway at 7 p.m. with the Sunday get-away game with the Bucs set for the usual 1 p.m.

After that, the Padres will take the day off on Monday, before plowing into a five-city, 12-games-in-a-15-day trip that will be the club's first road venture against the Eastern Division. It will also see the resumption of competition against the Western Division.

San Diego will be at Montreal May 4-6 and then follow this up at New York May 7-9, at Philadelphia May 11-12, at Chicago May 14-16 and finally at San Francisco May 17-18. All the games are scheduled as single affairs.

"This road trip is important for us," Padre manager John McNamara said. "It's a long one, but we are blessed with several off-dates sprinkled in so we should be in pretty good shape to work out our best pitching rotation and also have some time to help any possible injuries heal.

"Additionally, if we can do well, such as split as we did on the first road trip (an even 4-4 versus Los Angeles, Houston and Cincinnati) then we'll be in excellent shape as we'll be playing at home for 34 of the next 46 dates once that road trip is over.

"If we are on our game," McNamara said, "we could put together a good record by the time we approach the mid-season All-Star Game break. It might seem like a long way down the road, looking to mid-July already, but the schedule for the first half of the season is in our favor so we need to do well. The road dates will catch up with us in the second half."

Sports Equipment For Box Tops Aid Open For Schools

A cereal firm has announced a promotion that is designed to aid more than 80,000 public, private and parochial schools in their sports programs.

Post Cereals said this week that sports equipment will be exchanged for Post Cereal brands box tops. The announcement was made at the San Diego Sportscasters/Sportswriters Assn. meeting at Palais 500 in Mission Valley.

Such things as 30x30-foot gym mats, rule books, timing devices, electric scoreboards, bleacher seats, bats, balls, gloves, sliding boards and swing sets are among the equipment to be made available.

Specifics may be provided by Gene Oliva, c/o Carl Byoir and Assoc., New York 10017 or by calling P. H. McKelvey, of the same firm in Los Angeles at (213) 637-6421.

East County Gets CHP PR Officer

California Highway Patrol Officer Bernard "Benny" Price, a 7-year veteran of the service, has been named Public Affairs and Information officer for the soon-to-be completed East County CHP office in El Cajon.

CHP Officer Benny Price

Officer Price will serve all of the East County including Lemon Grove, Spring Valley and Casa de Oro as well as Lakeside and Santee.

He was transferred to S.D. from the Los Angeles area last year where he served in Public Affairs in the Hollywood, the Sunset Strip and Playa del Rey areas.

Here, he will provide programs on bike and traffic safety programs; make talks at service clubs and schools and serve in whatever other capacity required to help encourage traffic safety.

"Reduction of traffic accidents is our line of business," Price said. "Helping people get from here to there safely over our highways is an important part of the business. My job is to make knowledge of how to do that available to as many people as possible."

Eclipses Coming
There will be four eclipses in 1976, two of which will be visible in North America.

Supervisors, HHRA Presented HUD Fair Housing Awards

The Heartland Human Relations Assn. and the San Diego County Board of Supervisors were both expected to receive a Fair Housing Award from the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) this morning.

The award is given to individuals, organizations, municipal and county governments and public or private entities which have made outstanding efforts to support the fair housing objective of the Civil Rights Act of 1968.

Ceremonies this morning were expected to be held at the offices of the County of San Diego Human Relations Commission at 9 a.m. The awards presentation highlights HUD's observation of the eighth anniversary of fair housing.

Other recipients of the Fair Housing Award will be the City of San Diego and the Community Resource Board for the HUD-BCA Voluntary Affirmative Marketing Agreement.

American Greats Come Back for Pt. Loma Look

Benjamin Franklin, Abraham Lincoln and other American greats from the past come to Cabrillo National Monument on Point Loma next week for a little look around.

The Bicentennial play "We've Come Back for a Little Look Around," is free to the public and presented during the afternoon on May 5 and 6. The play is a blend of humor and history, based on Franklin's 1773 wish "... to come back in 100 years or more to see what had become of the American spirit."

"Little Look Around" is held at 2:30 and 3:45 on Wednesday and at 1:15, 2:30 and 3:45 on Thursday in the traffic circle in front of the Visitor Center.

Faulwetter Fundraisers

Dee VanDuine is hosting a fund-raiser and plant party for William C. Faulwetter at her home 10074 Cristobal dr. in Spring Valley at 10:30 today.

Later that same day Thelma Lewis of 8723 LaMar st. in Spring Valley is holding a coffee at 7:30 p.m. in her home in Faulwetter's honor.

The public is invited to both events.

Faulwetter is a candidate for supervisor in the 2nd District.

Ortman's Receptions

John Ortman, candidate for supervisor in the 2nd district said his week-end reception schedule looked like this:

Tonight — Lake Park Recreation room, La Mesa — 5:30-7:30.

Saturday — Home of Mrs. Arlene Tuchscher, Grevillea Way, Bonita — 5:30-7:30.

Sunday — 13125 Laurel, Lakeside — 2 p.m.

Moving Tenant Loses Hidden $100 Cash

When Barbara Gene Jarvis got ready to move from 8929 Valencia st. in Spring Valley to another address a few doors away, she planned to move her belongings a little at a time.

On one of her return trips she was surprised to find many of her clothes and other belongings thrown over a fence at the old address.

Moreover, she told sheriff's deputies, five $20 bills she had left in a wooden box on a shelf at her former address, were missing.

Officers are investigating the ransom and theft.

Scouts 'Colonize' Rancho SD

RANCHO SAN DIEGO — A thousand acres of Rancho San Diego open space was "colonized" over the weekend by the Grossmont District of the Boy Scouts of America at their annual Camporee.

The event, for 1,500 scouts and adults representing 75 troops from Spring Valley, Lemon Grove and other East County areas, centered around a "friendship quadrangle" consisting of a 30 foot natural wood structure surrounded by flags of every state in the Union.

The Camporee site is on a portion of the 4,620 acre

Rancho San Diego "country community" which is now in the development stages. Ultimately there will be several villages containing single-family homes, cluster homes, condos and apartments and about 40 per cent of open space for recreational use.

Scout activities for the Camporee included the Ethan Allen Trail, Swamp Fox Sleeps, Paul Revere's ride and other events aimed at familiarizing scouts with compass use, fire building and cooking, first aid and various skills needed to advance along the scouting trail.

Camera Equipment, Worth $1,100, Stolen

Richard Savala, a controller, of 9209 Brookside circle, Spring Valley, told sheriff's deputies on April 9 that the house had been burglarized while he was at work.

Officers responding to the complaint listed items valued at $1,124 missing. The items belonged to Jeffery A. Ipsen, a hair stylist, a resident of the house.

Cameras and camera equipment accounted for most of the loss. Less than $100 was the value placed on other than photographic items.

Entry was gained by forcing the kitchen door.

Officers, searching the area for clues, found a tool box nearby. It had been dropped by burglars and belonged to Savala.

On the list was a 35mm camera; Vivatar lens, a movie camera, Polaroid camera and $60 worth of film.

Movie Newsreel Revived For Grossmont Series

The newsreel, once a predictable part of every theatre program, is now a rare, almost forgotten film form in the theatres. But Grossmont College's Office of Community Education is reviving this obsolete form of mass media journalism in a free community series in cooperation with Fox Movietone News.

The series, titled "The Way It Was: 1927-1964," was edited from more than 150 million feet of film with 250,000 subjects that had been preserved in a New York City vault. There are 62 episodes, from Mussolini promising peace to girls trying to be Shirley Temple and 90-year old John D. Rockefeller taking his first airplane ride before giving the pilot a dime and a "God Bless Standard Oil."

Annual Home Show Scheduled for May

The Bureau of Home Appliances here will present its 39th annual home show May 6-9 in the Convention and Performing Arts Center, 202 C St. "So many home owners today are going into modernization and remodeling," said Lee LeBaron, show chairman, "that we will feature all kinds of products one would normally use in home improvement projects, including model baths and kitchens, fireplaces, insulation and many others."

Energy saving and consequent money savings will be brought in the form of new ideas to show-goers by the electronic "miracle robot girl," a hit at many other shows around the nation.

Many new exhibits will be seen in the leisure field, including golf, tennis, boating, home wood-working and power tools, citizen band radio, pools and spas.

Among exhibits will be daily microwave cooking instruction, security and safety displays, and a schedule of entertainment with KFMB radio's Hudson and Bauer hosting a family oriented show of musical entertainment at 7 and 9 nightly.

Horticultural displays, exhibitions on painting techniques by the adult education department, solar energy systems for heating and cooling, and a Coast Guard display and a booth on boat safety are listed.

Show hours will be from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. daily at the Community Concourse.

MDS Service Award Given to John Ortman

John Ortman, San Diego County businessman, has been awarded by the Muscular Dystrophy Society for Outstanding Service. The award was made at the San Diego County MDS annual dinner held at the Royal Inn at the Wharf.

Ortman was recognized for his continued efforts in the fight against MD including his work for the MD Telethon and the Warner Springs Summer Camp for MD stricken children.

John Ortman, who is currently a candidate for County Supervisor, 2nd District, is the owner of the San Diego County Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour Restaurants.

UCSD Jogging Course Teaches Techniques

Before beginning a jogging program, a person should have knowledge of the techniques, medical implications, and potential problems that can be avoided, says Howard Hunt, chairman of the physical education department at UCSD.

On Saturday, Hunt will coordinate a one-day program for joggers, titled "Jogging/Running: Is it for Me?" Participants will meet 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the recreation gym at UCSD. The course is sponsored by UCSD Extension and costs $18.

The medical considerations of jogging will be discussed by Dr. Daniel Brumfield of University and VA Hospitals, Gary Scherer of the Cardio Pulmonary Research Institute will discuss the psychological implications for the jogger-runner, and Thomas B. Rice, also from the CPRI will discuss nutritional and diet considerations for the jogger-runner.

For information on course registration, call Extension at 452-3400.

The first program covers newsreels from 1927 to 1931 and is screened at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Theatre of the Fine Arts Building on the Grossmont Campus in El Cajon.

Health Dept. Sees Danger In Goat Hair

Goat hair and certain other raw yarns imported from Pakistan by Creative Hand Weavers of Los Angeles and Tahki Imports, Ltd. of New York City have been found to be contaminated with anthrax bacteria and should be destroyed, according to the County Department of Public Health.

The bacteria produce a spore highly resistant to ordinary disposal methods. The Department urges persons to bring suspect yarn into its laboratory for safe disposal.

Investigation by local, state and federal agencies revealed that anthrax-contaminated yarns imported from a single exporter in Pakistan were the source of the bacteria.

Yarn suspected of having been purchased from Creative Hand Weavers or Tahki Imports, Ltd. should be double-bagged in plastic trash bags and taken to the Health Department's public health lab, 1600 Pacific Hwy.

The Department warns against ordinary burning, disposing or burying of the contaminated yarn as this could liberate the spores.

A Look at Past Issues

Back Pages

A look at the pages of this newspaper twenty years ago reveals some of the interesting contrasts between then and now. This column highlights some of the items that appeared in this newspaper at this time two decades ago.

By Bruce Binkowski

Area store owners in the first week of May, 1956, kicked off a three day event called "Lucky Lemon Days." The purpose of the merchants was to attract attention to the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area as a shopping mart. Stores participating displayed a large yellow colored lemon in their windows.

Sadie and Israel Marder opened Marder's Stationery Store on Broadway in Lemon Grove. Marder opened the business with 38 years background in the office supply business. Marder's is still located on Broadway and is owned by Eleanor and Leonard Klein.

Five Lemon Grove girls entered the 11th Annual Fairest of the Fair contest. The winner was to represent Lemon Grove in the try for wearing the crown of the Fairest of the Fair and the right to reign over the Southern California Exposition and County Fair.

Speaking of beauty contests, the Lemon Grove Firemen's Relief Association was searching 20 years ago for seven young ladies to compete for the title of "Miss Lemon Grove Fire Chief." The winner would reign as queen of the Firemen's Ball.

The classified section of the Review/Bulletin was filled with information that was typical of the mid-fifties. For example, these gems were discovered: FOUNTAIN GIRLS, 19 or over, for Bear State

Nuke Power Is Future Must, R. Morris Says

The trend toward electricity produced in nuclear power plants is a must for the future, insists the president of San Diego Gas & Electric Company.

In a speech before the San Diego Building Contractors Assn., Robert E. Morris said that more and more of the electricity San Diegans use will come from nuclear power plants.

"Projects now under way or in the planning stages will increase nuclear energy, as a percentage of our total generation, from the present 7 per cent to 35 per cent by 1985," he predicted.

Morris said that Proposition 13, the June 8 primary item which would limit the output of California's nuclear plants, would not increase nuclear safety and would "shut down" the nuclear power industry in California.

He said the consequences of Proposition 13 passing would be increased dependence of imported oil and sharply higher utility bills. Electricity costs about twice as much to generate in an oil-fired plant as in a nuclear plant, he told the group.

Heartland's New Performing Arts Center Needs Furnishings

More than $50,000 has been contributed in a drive to provide furnishings and equipment for the East County Performing Arts Center under construction by the Grossmont Community College District and the City of El Cajon.

The fund raising drive is spearheaded by the Women's Committee of the Grossmont Community Concert Association who have formed committees to provide all segments of the community with the opportunity to contribute to the new cultural center of the Heartland area.

A Steering Committee, with Mrs. Claude V. Hawk, El Cajon, serving as chairperson, is directing the overall drive. A campaign organization, with former El Cajon Mayor Jim Snapp and La Mesa Mayor Paul Fordham serving as co-chairmen, has been formed to Fountain in Lemon Grove. Also, there was a classified for the following: 1 ROOM CABIN, $10 PER MONTH.

Merger Seen for 2 Health Groups

If the board of directors of the Health Systems Agency (HSA) has its way, it'll merge with the Comprehensive Health Planning Assn. (CHPA), it was announced.

A public proposal, submitted through Joint Powers Agreement involving San Diego and Imperial Counties, spells out the counties' intention to be designated as the area's Health Systems Agency under the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act.

The counties' application is in competition with a second application submitted by CHPA, a private organization. Both applicants have been urged to combine their proposals into a single application.

In the latest attempt to reach a merger, the local government's HSA board has proposed the expansion of its membership to include representation from the City of San Diego and a health care provider and consumer. Now represented by two supervisors from each County, and an appointee from the League of Cities, the board would be expanded to eight members.

During past attempts at negotiation, CHPA representatives have expressed concern over the concentration of supervisors on the HSA board.

The HSA board said, in the event of a merged application, it would be willing to assure CHPA that one-half of the professional and non-professional positions for the new HSA staff would be filled by existing CHPA staff members to provide continued employment for some of the displaced staff.

In a letter, the two-county HSA board stressed concern for public accountability in the program which involves public funds only. As a requirement, a board with its majority being public officials is being required.

Business Firms Get Pay for Training

Last year, from May to December, 240 welfare recipients have been placed with private enterprise throughout the county at entry-level positions such as printer, machinist, assembler, clerical, warehouse, and plumber trainees.

This year, RETC has approved $595,000 for use in the program which runs until September.

The program is open to employers with less than 100 employees. The program pays 30-50 per cent of the training costs for each employee. Minimum salary is $1.30 an hour. The On-the-Job Training telephone is 299-3300.

conduct the fund raising campaign.

The 1200 seat auditorium will feature arena-style seating. By the use of screens, seating can be reduced to accommodate various size audiences. Specially designed ramps and lifts will provide access for the handicapped. The stage area will provide adequate space for the larger Broadway productions or a full symphony orchestra.

Funds to purchase furnishings and equipment for the interior of the East County Performing Arts Center may be donated in any amount. Individual group or corporate donors of $100 or more will have their names inscribed on a perpetual Wall of Honor in the auditorium foyer.

Tax deductible donations should be made to ECPAC and mailed to P.O. Box 81, El Cajon, CA 92022.

CANDY, ETC. — Ana Clegg is surrounded by jars of American and imported candy in her new shop, Ananita's Variety, which opened recently on Broadway's central shopping area in Lemon Grove. Ana also sells imported tea, clothing, furniture and antiques.

Prop. 4 Would Help SV Campus, Grossmont Board Resolves

The Grossmont Community College District's Governing Board adopted a resolution in support of the 1976 Community College Construction Bond Act that will appear as Proposition 4 on the June 8 primary ballot. In their endorsement of the state bond issue, voted at their April 20 meeting, they urged support by all residents of the Grossmont Community College District.

Requiring a simple majority by voters throughout the state, Proposition 4 will authorize the sale of $150 million in state general obligation bonds to help meet the major construction needs of California public community colleges. If the bond issue passes, Grossmont Community College District's share of the state money will amount to nearly $5.5 million.

Preliminary site development has already been completed on a 165-acre campus located on the old Monte Vista Ranch near the intersection of Highway 94 and Jamacha rd. in Spring Valley. Initial construction will consist of a power plant, maintenance facility and technical-vocational/general education building. Present plans for the new college call for the first buildings to be open for classes in the Fall of 1978.

In addition to general education courses, the new college will feature engineering and technical programs including electronics, architectural graphics, computer technology and technical and scientific illustration. Present enrollment projections indicate that three to four thousand students will be enrolled when the new college opens.

FCC Rules In Favor of Cable TV System

A landmark ruling by the Federal Communications Commission on March 31, now permits Mission Cable TV to carry three additional Los Angeles television stations.

The three stations affected by the ruling are KNXT—channel 2 (CBS), KABC—channel 7 (ABC), and KHJ—channel 9 (Indep.)

Mission Cable had been restricted from carrying these three stations as a result of complex rules and regulations put into effect in early 1972.

"The ruling won't have any immediate effect on about half of our present subscribers", according to Donald O. Williams, Vice-President and General Manager of Mission Cable TV, "but nearly all of our existing subscribers within our new expansion areas—those that have been built and activated since 1972—will now have the opportunity to view three additional Los Angeles stations."

Senator Seeks Funding For Quake Research

Senator Alan Cranston (D. Calif.) disclosed recently that he had spoken to President Ford in order to enlist his aid in getting more federal funding to earthquake research along California's San Andreas fault.

Cranston asked for special attention to the San Andreas fault running in the Mojave Desert where a ten-inch bulge in the earth's crust has recently been discovered.

Cranston said he also asked the President to support the Senator's long-range Earthquake Disaster Mitigation bill that would pump $50 million annually over the next ten years into a massive federal effort to predict and possibly control earthquakes and to improve earthquake resistant structural design and land use planning.

The Senator noted that the U.S. Geological Survey and the National Science Foundation could use twice as much money as they are now getting for their earthquake programs. They were budgeted for approximately $12 million apiece this year.

Cranston noted that scientists say they hope to be able to predict a future California earthquake within two or three days of its occurrence if given enough instrumentation along the 650-mile-long San Andreas fault.

Citations Costly For Employers Working Youngsters Late, Long

Restaurants, 24-hour service businesses, and farm producers with early morning harvests—who traditionally hire youngsters under 18 years of age—must be careful not to work their young employees past 10 p.m. on school nights.

The State Labor Commission says that California employers are being cited $1,000 penalties under new child labor laws for working youngsters during late night and very early morning hours.

Child labor laws protecting minors should not act as barriers to employment of young people, but are intended to make sure that working conditions are wholesome and are not abusive, S.L.C. says. Work experience is a valuable part of the learning process when in accordance with the laws and regulations and does not impair youngsters' formal education.

Businesses that close at 10 p.m. cannot allow youngsters under 18 years to work on for an additional hour cleaning and mopping up the premises, it was warned.

State labor law says that youngsters under 18 must quit work at 12:30 a.m. on non-school nights and at 10 p.m. on school nights.

The Labor Commissioner points out that tough new $1,000 penalties were made mandatory for child labor violations by AB 436 (Leo T. McCarthy), a law that went into effect last January 1.

Penalties Listed

Already cited $1,000 penalties by the State were:

- a Los Angeles catering service, March 18, for allowing a 14-year-old boy to work at 4:45 a.m. helping to load food trucks;
- two San Francisco peninsula restaurants, March 16 and 22, for working busboys and waiters past 10 p.m.;
- a Burlingame telephone answering service, March 11, for employing a 17-year-old girl after 1:30 a.m.;

- a Riverside donut shop, March 9, for employing a 17-year-old girl on a 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift;

- a Los Angeles janitorial service, March 3, for hiring a 16-year-old boy to clean in a large downtown office building between 10:30 p.m. and 2:30 a.m.;

- a Riverside produce grower-shipper, February 5, for working five youngsters, aged 14, 15, and 17, lighting and filling smudge pots in orange groves during the late night hours;
- a Stockton restaurant, one of a chain of 16 in California, February 2, for working two 17-year-olds on a shift that ended at 11 p.m.

Labor Commissioner James L. Quinlan, who is also Chief of the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement in the State Department of Industrial Relations, has responsibility for enforcing the State's child labor laws.

Helix Water District Says 'No' to Issue 15

The Helix Water District Board of directors has gone on record opposing the Nuclear Initiative which will appear as Proposition 15 on the June 8 California Primary ballot. Opposition was voiced in a resolution citing the great dependence of water supply on the availability of electrical energy at an April 16 meeting.

Pointing out 90 per cent of the District's water supply is imported and must be pumped a minimum of 1600 feet, the resolution also states 70 per cent of the water delivered by the Helix system must be lifted or boosted to serve hillside homes. The pump lifts are operated by electricity, the resolution informs.

Forecasts of the demand for electrical energy indicate that additional generating capacity is required to meet the growing needs of the residents in the Helix District.

The Board states in the resolution that the Nuclear Initiative would, if approved, foreclose one of the important options available to the producers of electrical energy. It also points out that developments of new sources of energy (including oil, coal, hydro, geothermal, nuclear, and others) each involve serious environmental and economic problems.

600,000 Names on Voter Rights List

SAN DIEGO — "More than 600,000 signatures will have been affixed to petitions for the Voter Rights Initiative by week's end," Mrs. Ruth Johnson, state chairman of the Citizens Committee to Preserve Voter Rights announced earlier this week.

It will appear on the November ballot, she said.

The proposed constitutional amendment—which would require a vote of the people for legislation giving public employees the right to strike, binding arbitration or agency shop provisions—requires 499,869 valid signatures to qualify for the ballot.

"The amendment would not prohibit collective bargaining by public employees," Mrs. Johnson said. "Neither would it prohibit agency shops, strikes or binding arbitration."

"It would simply put the decision into the hands of the voter, where it rightfully belongs. It's the taxpayer, after all, who pays the salaries of public employees."

Private Citizens
Mrs. Johnson said the Citizens Committee to Preserve Voter Rights is a group of private citizens not backed by any special interest groups.

"We have widespread support," she said, "with more endorsements coming in every day."

Endorsers of the initiative to date include the California Professional Educators Assn., California Federation of Women's Clubs, San Diego Taxpayers Assn., and San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Sales Up in State

Taxable sales in California exceeded $20.3 billion during 1975's fourth quarter, an increase of $2 billion over totals for the final quarter of 1974.

Sign of the times.

SPEED LIMIT 55

The speed limit sign. It says 55 miles an hour. And it says it for some very good reasons.

Like saving millions of gallons of gasoline and thousands of lives on the highways each year.

But you know these reasons already. Everybody from the oil companies to the insurance companies have been talking about them for better than two years now.

And some of you have been listening. Because some of you have slowed down.

But there are still an awful lot of people who seem to think the 55 mph speed limit is something they can take or leave.

It isn't. It's a law. With tickets and fines and the rest. Just like any other law.

And just like other laws, it can do a lot of positive things. But it's enforcement that gives a law a chance to work.

The 55 mph speed limit is a sign of the times. And for the times. And it's something we've got to start paying attention to. Not just because it's a good idea. But because it's the law.

It's not just a good idea. It's the law.
